

CCNE Fee Structure Entry-to-Practice Nurse Residency Programs

ANNUAL FEE

The annual fee applies to all entry-to-practice nurse residency programs that hold accreditation by CCNE.

	FY* 2022	FY 2023	FY 2024
One entry-to-practice nurse residency program (i.e., employee-based or federally funded)	$2,500	$2,500	$2,500
Two entry-to-practice nurse residency programs (i.e., employee-based and federally funded)	$3,500	$3,500	$3,500

In general, CCNE invoices accredited programs for the annual fee in May and the deadline for payment is July. New applicant programs are assessed a prorated annual fee 2-3 months after accreditation is granted. Failure to pay the annual fee by the given deadline may result in an adverse action.

EVALUATION FEE

Entry-to-practice nurse residency programs are assessed a flat fee for hosting the evaluation, whether it occurs on site or virtually. This fee is intended to cover the team's and CCNE's expenses associated with the accreditation review process. This fee is based on the size of the evaluation team, not on the length of the evaluation. An evaluation team typically comprises 3 individuals, but the number of individuals assigned to a team may increase due to the complexity or nature of the program(s) under review.

	FY 2022	FY 2023	FY 2024
Fee per team member	$1,750	$1,750	$1,750

CCNE invoices the program for the evaluation fee in advance of the evaluation. Failure to pay the evaluation fee by the given deadline may result in cancellation of the evaluation or an adverse action.

NEW APPLICANT FEE

The new applicant fee applies to any entry-to-practice nurse residency program requesting new applicant status. This one-time fee must be submitted with the application for initial accreditation.

	FY 2022	FY 2023	FY 2024
One entry-to-practice nurse residency program (i.e., employee-based or federally funded)	$3,500	$3,500	$3,500
Two entry-to-practice nurse residency programs (i.e., employee-based and federally funded)	$4,000	$4,000	$4,000

NEW PROGRAM FEE

The fee to schedule the evaluation of a new entry-to-practice nurse residency program for accreditation applies to any healthcare organization that already has a CCNE-accredited entry-to-practice nurse residency program. This one-time fee must be submitted with the letter of intent to request an accreditation review of the new program.

	FY 2022	FY 2023	FY 2024
Fee to add a new entry-to-practice nurse residency program (i.e., employee-based or federally funded)	$500	$500	$500

PLEASE NOTE:

1. CCNE fees are separate from American Association of Colleges of Nursing (AACN) membership dues and are nonrefundable.
2. Programs may be charged additional amounts for specific services or products they seek from CCNE.
3. The fee for appealing an adverse action is $15,000.
4. CCNE reserves the right to deny accreditation to or withdraw accreditation from any program that, after due notice, fails to pay its fees.

If questions, please contact CCNE staff at 202-887-6791 or visit the CCNE website at www.ccneaccreditation.org.

* The CCNE fiscal year runs from July 1 to June 30.

Approved: September 21, 2022